Roses are Red, Violets are blue
The Rosary Garden is done. Abundant thanks to you!
The Day lilies are yellow, the Hosta's are green,
you've helped me to realize a four year old dream.
The mulch is arranged, the stones have been blessed,
You won't need to hesitate
Now that you have a sacred space to meditate.
Basil is sweet, but thyme is elusive
Your investment in young people is part of the CYS solution.
